The Daily Courant.

Tueſday, October 26 1703.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 25.

Rome, September 29.

A Severe Bull will ſhortly be publiſh'd againſt Duels and Duelliſts, occaſion'd by that fought lately in which the Baron de Gavoti was kill'd. A ſharp Satyr on the Pope having lately appear'd in Print, a great Reward is promis'd to the Diſcoverer of the Author of it. The Marqueſs de Pierre, one of the Duke of Savoy's Miniſters, arriv'd here ſome days ago; he pretends in publick that he is come hither only to ſee the City, but it being known that he has had ſome private Audiences of the Pope, 'tis not doubted he is commiſſion'd to Negociate ſome Affair of Conſequence. The Croſs ſet with Diamonds, which we formerly ſaid was ſtollen out of one of his Holineſs's own Chappels, is found again; but we cannot learn who ſtole it, nor how it came to be found.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated October 25.

The Letters from Paris of the 16th of this Month, which came through the Neutral Countries, adviſe, That the King of France has publickly declar'd, that he will not ſuffer the King of Pruſſia to take Poſſeſſion of the Principality of Neufchatel, after the Death of the Dutcheſs of Nemours, in prejudice of the Prince of Conti, whoſe Intereſt he eſpouſes. That, it was reported, his Majeſty has ſent Orders on that Affair to the Marqueſs de Puiſieux his Ambaſſador in Swiſſerland, on Advice that the King of Pruſſia had ſent Deputies to the Cantons, particularly to the Canton of Berne, which has taken Neufchatel into Protection, ſet forth his Right to that Principality, as being Heir to King William the Third.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated Oct. 27.

Hague, October 25. The Prince of Naſſau, Stadholder of Friſeland, with the Princeſs Dowager his Mother, arriv'd here yeſterday from Loo, whither he came lately from the Army. In the Evening the Earl of Portland, who was gone on board a Yacht in order to ſail for England, return'd hither, the Wind not favouring him. The Imperial Envoy Count Goes is gone Poſt from hence, to meet the King of Spain, and be preſent at his Reception by the Deputies of the States at Schencken Schans; whence he will attend his Majeſty hither, who is expected on the 28th, and will be lodg'd in the Palace call'd the Oude Hof. General Coehorn is arriv'd here from Flanders.

Plymouth, October 22. Yeſterday came into this Port Her Majeſty's Ships the Ruby and Pendennis from Newfoundland, and a Dutch Privateer with an Engliſh Bomb-Ketch which ſhe retook from the French. The ſame day ſail'd the Severn Galley Privateer to the Eaſtward. This day came in Her Majeſty's Ships the Defiance and Gloceſter from Newfoundland, and under their Convoy two Tranſports from Jamaica, and a retaken Ship from Antego; came in alſo the Sidney and Bonetta Ketch from Falmouth.

Dartmouth, October 22. This day arriv'd 2 Tranſports from Newfoundland, who parted from 13 Sail of Men of War, and the reſt of the Fleet under Admiral Graydon two days ſince; They give no account of any thing done upon the French Fiſhery in Newfoundland. On the 20th arriv'd a Ship of Venice from Zant, who met the Fleet commanded by Sir Cloudſly Shovel about 20 Leagues Eaſt of Alicant.

Shields, October 22. There is come into this Port about a day or two ago 100 Sail of light Colliers under Convoy of two Men of War, viz. the Warwick and the Nightingal. Our Harbour is now very full of Shipping, Winds continue very much Southerly, and very Rainy, ſo that theſe Ships will not ſoon get their lading.

Pool, October 23. This day arriv'd here a French Prize from Newfoundland of 14 Guns taken by the Sheerneſs at St. Peters, had 18 days paſſage from thence, and reports, they came thence in company with two Men of War of Admiral Graydon's Squadron which he left behind, and two Merchant Ships; and that the Convoys and Fleet bound to the Southward were not ready to ſail.

Cowes, October 23. This Evening came into St. Hellens Road Her Majeſty's Ship the Burford from Jamaica, who came from thence with Admiral Graydon and ſix Men of War more, but by ſtreſs of Weather they were ten days ago parted, and ſome of them loſt their Maſts and were very much diſabled, but the Captain believes ſome of the ſaid ſix Ships

Ships of War may be put into Ireland. Here is alſo come in a Sloop from the Maderas, the Maſter reports, that in his paſſage he met off the Weſtern Iſlands with an Algerine Man of War, which took away all his Guns, and what ſmall Casks of Wine the Algerine could come at; who alſo took two Venetian Ships in ſight of the aboveſaid Sloop.
